

It would worthwhile including the LCOE for existing generation assets, as well as estimates of life extension of existing plants together with sensitivities to various assumptions

I'd also like to see how predictions in future costs for the various GenCost report have compared to actual costs.

Mark Armstrong